

Houseflies – male and female

The wife came into the room where her husband was walking around with the flyswatter. Are you having any success killing flies today? Yes, I have killed three males and two females. The wife's curiosity got the best of her, and she asked how can you tell that three were males and two were females? That is easy replied the husband. Three of them could not seem to get away from the beer cans, and two of them spent a very long time on the telephone.
