

“I Too Had Love To Give”

I'd have been there for you when you were grey and old Now all that you will have is pain and remorse untold.

Was it not in Earthly pleasure that you and daddy made me?
Why then for worldly treasure
the farewell that you bade me?

When you killed me, no tears
just a sigh of relief.
But one day, dearest mother,
you will know the deepest grief.

Why was I not adopted?
Could not someone else enjoy Watching me grow to be
A delightful girl or boy?

I'll never see the face of God,
For never was I baptized.
I'll be forever in limbo
My potential unrealized.

Why did you slay me, mother?
Why not let me live?
You would have loved me mother,
I too had Love to Give.
