

God painting America in the autumn with mankind capturing a very small, tiny, and miniature part of it with cameras! Not only does God paint more beautiful pictures than man, but He knows how many trees are on earth. He adorns each tree with just the exact amount of leaves. For many trees God then changes the color of the leaves every autumn before they fall and decay back into the earth. Next spring God will create an untold number of leaves to again adorn these beautiful trees! Who can count the number of snowflakes that will fall in America between the times the leaves change colors in the autumn until the new leaves appear in the spring? Who can count the number and variety of the many birds that fly from tree to tree? Who except God could paint the birds such beautiful colors, and give them the ability to sing such beautiful songs? One of the most amazing things of all is the fact that some people still say there is no Creator! Have you ever considered the very minute part of America that you see even if you drove on every paved highway? Look on a map of the USA and you will of course see where roads go and connect and take you to various places. However, look at all the spaces between the roads where most of mankind never goes. Yes indeed you only see a very small part of God's creation even if you travel much. Was it not St. Teresa who told us that souls falling into hell are like the leaves falling from the trees in the autumn and like the snowflakes in a blinding blizzard? What are we doing to pray and sacrifice for the salvation of immortal souls?
